When I was growing up, my dad had the best job I could possibly imagine: he was an arcade game 5 and pinball technician.

For me, that meant summer trips through Poland's coastal cities with their seasonal arcade parlors; peeking inside cabinets 5 to learn programming and engineering secrets; and—of course—free games!

One of my favorites was PAC-MAN, whose popularity transcended the geopolitical barriers 5 of that time. During the heyday of space shooters, Tru Iwatani's creation stood out as one of the first video 5 games aimed at a broader audience, with a cute story of pizza-shaped character gobbling dots in a maze, colorful (literally!) 5 characters, friendly design, very little violence and everlasting fun.

Today, on PAC-MAN's 30th birthday, you can rediscover some of your 8-bit 5 memories—or meet PAC-MAN for the first time—through our first-ever playable Google doodle. To play the game, go to google during 5 the next 48 hours (because it's too cool to keep for just one day) and either press the "Insert Coin" 5 button or just wait for a few seconds.

Google doodler Ryan Germick and I made sure to include PAC-MAN's original game 5 logic, graphics and sounds, bring back ghosts' individual personalities, and even recreate original bugs from this 1980's masterpiece. We also 5 added a little easter egg: if you throw in another coin, Ms. PAC-MAN joins the party and you can play 5 together with someone else (PAC-MAN is controlled with arrow keys or by clicking on the maze, Ms. PAC-MAN using the 5 WASD keys).

PAC-MAN seems like a natural fit for the Google homepage. They're both deceptively straightforward, carefully hiding their complexity under 5 the hood. There's a light-hearted, human touch to both of them. And we can only hope you find using Google 5 at least a quarter as enjoyable as eating dots and chasing ghosts. You know, without actually needing any quarters.
