Chermoula: a "flavour bomb" of Maghreb cuisine

Chermoula is a marinade that originates from the Maghreb region of North Africa, specifically from Morocco. It is often referred to as the "emblematic marinade of Maghreb cuisine" and its name comes from the Arabic verb cherme, which means "to rub or marinate something with a spice mix". The three main ingredients of chermoula are garlic, olive oil, and fresh herbs, making it similar to an Italian salsa verde but with a distinct North African flavor profile.

The herbs

The most important ingredient in chermoula is a combination of coriander and flat-leaf parsley, which are used in equal proportions. The herbs add a unique flavor and depth to the marinade, and can be adjusted to taste. Some recipes call for more coriander, while others use more parsley.

The flavorings

Garlic is a key ingredient in chermoula and can be adjusted to taste, with some recipes calling for just one clove and others using up to a dozen. Cumin is also commonly used and enhances the flavor of the herbs without competing with them. Saffron, on the other hand, is often included but can be difficult to detect in the presence of strong flavors such as garlic and red pepper.

The acid

Not all chermoula recipes include acid, but it can be added for flavor and to help melt the bones of a whole fish when marinating. Fresh lemon juice is the preferred acid, as it provides a cleaner and more refreshing flavor compared to vinegar.

The method

Chermoula can be made by finely chopping the ingredients or using a pestle and mortar to release the oils. The texture of the chermoula can be adjusted based on its intended use, with a coarser texture preferred for a condiment or salsa and a smoother texture preferred for a marinade or rub.

The fish

Chermoula can be used with a variety of fish, including sardines, tuna, and mackerel. It can be used as a marinade for whole or filleted fish, or as a condiment for grilled or fried fish. It pairs well with lemon and can be used to make a small-scale fish tagine.
